

Solve the avoided to accelerate transformation

We use the KARRIKINS Behavior Model™ to frame the conversations we know teams need to have to figure out how to deliver on new outcomes. By drawing focus to and exploring the influencers of actions, teams can start to shift decisions and behaviors in meaningful ways.

Too often, teams jump right to what the new behaviors and decisions should be without understanding what influences them. The result? A lot of agreement and very little alignment.

Taking the time to talk through the influencers helps individuals and teams set themselves up for success as they work to deliver on strategy, transform their organizations, and fuel growth.

5 ways to activate leaders and accelerate transformation

- 1 TRADEOFFS are the tough-to-make choices that drive decisions and behaviors. Examples include short term / long term, operational / innovative, or custom / standard. Teams become deeply habituated around what tradeoffs they prefer to make.
- 2 BLOCKERS are often related to organizational factors, and are simply hard realities to work through. This could include Board-level decisions, standard processes, legal / regulatory requirements, or other tough-to-change influences.
- 3 INDIVIDUAL MINDSETS represent deeply held beliefs, biases, and assumptions about other people, the way work gets done, and how the world functions. They influence how we show up and what we believe about the team.
- 4 GROUP DYNAMICS exist whenever two or more people are in a literal or figurative room together. They include positional power, rituals, symbols, stories, ways of debating, and routines that influence how a group works together.
- 5 ORGANIZATIONAL FACTORS create more visible guardrails for how things get done. They include processes, procedures, org charts, compensation models, floor plans, working hours, and other structures that guide behavior.

WHITE PAPER

The HOW of Leadership

The KARRIKINS Diamond Triangle™ summarizes the leadership requirements for sustained growth and transformation.

In today's environment, we've observed that:

- › Aligned leadership teams generate more growth than individual leaders can on their own.
- › Alignment solely to a WHY or WHAT results in suboptimal performance.
- › Lacking a clearly defined HOW to lead together destroys business value and blinds leadership teams to risk and opportunities.
- › Enduring value creation comes from aligned leaders working to move an organization forward.

The missing link

It is rare for leadership teams to be as clear on HOW to work together as they are on WHAT they need to do and WHY they do it. We are obsessed with closing that gap and unlocking the full value-creating potential of the organizations with which we partner.
